The Churches .- All the churches in the ity were well attended Sunday. The regular pastors occupied the different pulpits. The protracted meeting at the Methodist church will continue each night of the present week. The meetings conducted at this church during the last four weeks have been of unusual interest, and the capacity of the church is insufficient for the accommodation of those desiring to attend.

Services at the Meade Memorial church will be conducted by the rector (Rev. J. H. Stringfellow) each night during the week.

Hustings Court .- The Hustings Court was in session yesterday. Several unimportant civil cases were disposed of; after which the court adjourned over until Thursday.

A Runaway. - A horse attached to a grocer's wagen ran off on Hull street yesterday and collided with a wagon on Seventh street. No serious damage was done. A Persevering Pedestrian.-The celebrated pedestrian contest which recently transpired in New York has occasioned a considerable interest among those who take a delight in long journeying on foot, and was the cause that led a young gentleman of this city to calculate the number of miles walked by him whilst visiting his fair one. After long figuring he has finally arrived at the conclusion. He estimates it at 1.482 miles; and, furthermore, furnishes sworn affidavits as to the correctness of his state-
